- SEVEN WONDERS OF NATURE

DURATION:- HANOI (3N/4D) & HO CHI MINH (3N/4D)

NO OF PAX:- 50

Overview of Vietnam

- A land of staggering beauty, complexity and intrigue - Vietnam is home to sleepy rural hill tribes and bustling cities, perched between some of the most beautiful natural landscapes in the world.
- You only have to scratch the surface of this deeply fascinating country to see vestiges of its complicated history. Ancient temples display distinctly Chinese influences in the north and Hindu origins in the south. Meanwhile, the broad, tree-lined boulevards and grand state buildings that pepper Hanoi date from the French colonial period.
- Despite evoking an image of war and deep suffering for those who grew up in the shadow of the devastating Vietnam War, Vietnam is an infectiously happy place. Colour, vibrancy and lust for life are to be found in every corner.
- A mess of motorbikes and merchants, serene lakes and temples, peek underneath the surface and layers of history will reveal remnants of periods of French and Chinese occupation-offering a glimpse into the resilience of ambitious, proud Vietnamese.
- Best Time to visit:- Spring (February to April) and Autumn (August to October).

Overview of Hanoi and Halong Bay

- Hanoi, the capital of Vietnam, is known for its centuries-old architecture and a rich culture with Southeast Asian, Chinese and French influences. At its heart is the chaotic Old Quarter, where the narrow streets are roughly arranged by trade.
- Hanoi is a city full of mellow charm and scenic beauty. Nestled along the woody avenue on the banks of Red River, the city offers an assortment of leisure activities. Bustling with crowd and voices, the city is rich in culture with ever-growing infrastructure.
- Halong Bay, in North-East Vietnam, is famous for its emerald waters and deep and dark rainforests.
- It is a vision of ethereal beauty with a scattering of islands and wind and wave dotted grottoes.
- It is designated as a UNESCO World Heritage Site in 1994 and was also classified as a wonder in the New Seven Wonders of Nature, in 2012.

Places to Visit in Hanoi

- The mausoleum is the resting place of, the revolution leader Ho Chi Minh, who was the President of the Communist Party of Vietnam, at the very same place where he in 1945, read the Declaration of Independence and established the Democratic Republic of Vietnam.
- Inspired by Lenin's Mausoleum (in Moscow) but with a Vietnamese twist, it incorporates elements that are tied to Vietnamese architecture like the sloping roof.
- The embalmed body of Ho Chi Minh, is kept in the central hall of the mausoleum, protected at all times, by security.
- Saint Joseph Cathedral is a hybrid of Vietnamese and Western architectural style
- A Roman Catholic cathedral done in a Neo-Gothic style, it was built around 120 years ago.
- The cathedral was constructed and completed in 1886, after the French army conquered Hanoi.
- The architecture of the cathedral clearly follows the rules of the Gothic style and design of Paris Cathedral with the interiors decorated in a Vietnamese way, in colours of yellow and red.

Places to Visit in Hanoi

- The Hoa Lo Prison Museum or known by its ironically nickname, the “Hanoi Hilton” will make you experience a range of emotions from disgust, sorrow to outrage at how something like this was allowed to happen.
- The museum displays and educates on the sufferings of the Vietnamese revolutionaries who were confined under the occupying French government during the early 20th century.
- It is peculiar to have a prison built in the center of the city, but the idea of the French colonial administrators was to make an example of the Vietnamese fighters for independence.
- The Temple of Literature is often regarded as one of the most visited tourist attractions. In 1070 it was made with the intention of serving as an university and was dedicated to Confucius and scholars. Fortunately, the building is remarkably preserved and is an excellent example of traditional Vietnamese architecture.
- A tribute to education and literature, this place has seen thousands of Vietnam’s finest scholars.
- The most acclaimed prize for the most successful scholars was to have their names engraved onto a stone stele on top of the stone turtles.

Temple of Literature

Places to Visit in Hanoi

- Built in memorial of the 13th century figure Tran Hung Dao, a brave military leader who fought against the Yuan Dynasty.
- The island on which the pagoda is built is known as Jade Island and is accessible by the famous Rising Sun Bridge. Bridge is built out of wood, coloured red in a classical Vietnamese fashion.
- The pagoda and lake are probably the most famous places in Hanoi, where you just come to lay down, relax and enjoy the blissful quiet.

Ngoc Son Pagoda

- Dong Xuan Market is the largest indoor market in Hanoi.
- What one can find there is truly astounding, whatever you're looking for whether it'd be some fresh local produce, souvenirs or in need of a laptop – chances are some vendor tucked away has it.
- Established in the late 19th century, the Dong Xuan Market can be found in a four story communist styled building on the edge of the Old Quarters.
- You will be able to find handbags, fabrics, handicrafts all of which being sold at wholesale prices!

Dong Xuan Market

Places to Visit in Hanoi

Bia Hoi

Hoan Kiem lake

- If you're a beer enthusiast, you'll be thrilled with Vietnam's beer culture
- Let us start off with the fact that Vietnam is the perfect place for a pub crawl. Bia Hoi is an insight into the beer scene of Vietnam.
- Vietnam boasts as having a unique drinking culture that can only be found in northern cities of this country. It's a daily ritual starting from 4pm where locals (and tourists) sit on plastic furniture on street corners and drink home-brewed beer.
- So if you were wondering how world's cheapest and freshest beer tastes like then don't miss your opportunity to get a pint!

- Known as the Lake of the Restored Sword from a legend, a story claimed that Heaven sent Emperor Ly Thai To, a sword with magical properties.
- He used that sword to banish the Chinese from Vietnam. Following the end of war a giant golden turtle took the sword and escaped to the depths of the lake to return the sword to its divine owners thus earning its name.
- The lake is special for other things as well, for eg. It is the only lake in Vietnam that is home to an iconic tortoise.

Places to Visit in Hanoi

Hanoi Old Quarter

The Old Quarters are one of the two most well-known districts in Hanoi (the other being the Ba Dinh District), a business center and also a very prominent spot among tourists. Sidewalks teeming with bicycles and scooters while crowds of people scavenge markets and barter loudly with street vendors, it is an interesting blend of ancient history (Hanoi celebrated a millennial birthday in 2010) and commercialism. Packed with French colonial architecture, pagodas and Buddhist temples you'll want to get lost in its streets. The streets carry names of the business that were set up over 1,000 years ago. Expect to see lots of cafes, restaurants, boutiques, art galleries and bars even in this historical area.

Royal Opera House

Modelled on the Palais Garnier, the older of Paris's two opera houses, it is considered to be one of the architectural landmarks of Hanoi. After the departure of the French the opera house became the scene for several political events, as well as the scene of street fighting during the fight for Hanoi. The facade has pillars in Roman order with stone-tiled curved roofs on top and wrought iron balconies overlooking the gorgeous city of Hanoi. The interior, of 24x24 meters with 589 velvet seats, consists of a large stage and a main audience room, with many small rooms for audience on the central floor. The design overwhelms visitors with crystal chandeliers, large wall mirrors and many Corinthian columns.

Places to visit in Halong Bay

- Halong Bay is a popular bay which is located in the north of Vietnam. The name of this place i.e. Halong means "the place of descending dragons".
- Halong Bay is one of the most famous spots in Vietnam and consists of a series of amazing limestone islands which are also a designated UNESCO World Heritage Site.
- One of the most famous regions of Vietnam, this bay is known to be located on the northern side of Vietnam and is also known as the land of the descending dragons.
- A newspaper in the 18th century reported sighting a dragon on its shore due to which this bay has got this name. This bay is known to contain around 2000 islands some of which are inhabited while some of them have been left vacant.
- Halong Bay Day Cruise is a perfect option for busy travellers who have limited time but still want to get a glance of the amazing Halong Bay. A day cruise tour can offer you an overview of the Bay with at least 3.5 hours or more (4 hours, 4.5 hours, 6 hours, 6.5 hours, 8 hours, and 10 hours) cruising time in the Bay.

- Even if with the limited time frame, you will have a wonderful opportunity not only to visit beautiful attractions in Halong Bay such as Titov Island and Heavenly Cave.
- A day cruise tour doesn't mean that you will be limited to attend in various activities. On the contrary, you still can take part in a plenty of activities such as paddling through Luon Cave by a sampan, swimming in Soi Sim Beach (Lazalee 6.5 hours Day Cruise); exploring Heaven Cave, kayaking or boat rowing in the deep blue sea waters (Alova Day Cruise); or admiring impressive limestone islets like Fighting Cocks, Duck, Finger, Incense Burner, and Stone Dog (Phoenix Day Cruise).

Places to Visit in Halong Bay

- There are some 2,000 islands located in Halong Bay and you will find many of them uninhabited and covered in gorgeous lush vegetation, making them perfect for hiking. Many of the islands are also home to famous caves where you can go spelunking and although Halong Bay can get quite busy during the high season, there are still some secluded spots to uncover if you are willing to island hop. If you prefer to stay in the thick of things, then you can enjoy seafood barbecues, sea kayaking and a whole host of attractions in the main towns such as forts and other monuments.
- "Con Rồng, cháu Tiên" origin (Dragon and Fairy Descendants), Ha Long is also known as "the land of dragon".
- Some legends said that when Vietnamese people established the country, they were invaded by foreign invaders.
- The Jade Emperor appointed Mother Dragon and her Child Dragons down to help the Vietnam to fight. Invaders' boats from the sea entered the shore, at that same time Dragons landed on earth. The dragons immediately ejected pearls and turned into thousands of rocky islands on the sea creating a solid wall to block the enemy warships. Enemy ships were moving fast and when blocked suddenly, they crashed into the rocky islands and broke into pieces.

Take a cruise

Hang Sung Sot Cave

- If you truly want to see all the beauty of Halong Bay then you need to take to the water and sign up for a boat cruise.
- There are a huge number of companies to choose from and you can go island hopping in Halong Bay.
- With some 2,000 islands to choose from, you will have lots of different options about where you want to go and what you want to see, from the main 'big hits' to less well known and smaller islands.
- Many of the boats used are built in the traditional style and are known as 'junk boats'. Depending on the tour operator you can also enjoy a buffet meal as part of the cruise or even stay on the boat overnight for a truly memorable cruising experience.
- Hang Sung Sot Cave is located at Bon Hon Island and you will need to hike up a steep path to get here, although it is worth the effort for the inner views.
- There are two different chambers in the cave which soar to a height of some 30 meters.
- The inner chamber is known for having a number of stone formations that are said to look like sentries lining up and there is even a stone in the center of the cave that looks like a general talking to his troops.
- As the light streams across the water and makes flickering patterns on the inside of the cave, it looks as if the formations are coming to life.

Diving

Visit Cat Ba Island

- Diving is one of the most popular activities that you can take part in, at the Halong Bay. It is the perfect place to enjoy deep sea diving and snorkeling.
  - The water is clean and very clear, for delightful views. Excellent visibility helps with picturesque underwater sights.
  - There are a number of diving schools here, at which you can take classes, or just take a boat to the islands and snorkel around.
- Cat Ba Island is the most popular attraction in Halong Bay and it is also the biggest island in this part of Vietnam.
  - The island sits around an ancient fisherman's port and as such has a relaxed atmosphere that makes it the perfect place to spend an afternoon.
  - One of the best things to do here is to rent a bicycle and ride to the idyllic countryside just outside the main town.
  - This is also the spot where many of the boats leave for island trips so it makes a good place to base yourself while you are in Halong Bay.

Visit Lan Ha Bay

- Halong Bay is a very popular destination in Vietnam which means that many of the islands get crowded in the high season.
- This is one of the oldest floating residential areas in Vietnam so if you want to see a slice of history then this is not to be missed.
- With that in mind, if you want to explore a quieter part of the region, then consider a trip to Lan Ha Bay.
- The island is known for white sandy beaches and there are a plethora of activities on offer here.
- These include swimming, rock climbing and sea kayaking and you can also visit the Cai Beo Floating Village.

Visit Cannon Fort

- If you want to take in the best of the views in Cat Ba Island then head for Cannon Fort.
- From the vantage point of the fort you can see rolling hills as well as bobbing fishing boats and karst formations jutting out of the sea.
- To get to the fort you need to walk up a hill to the main gate and you can check out underground tunnels here as well as a number of attractions such as gun emplacements.
- The fort is also dotted with life size model soldiers and there are several lookout points.

Overview of Ho Chi Minh City

- Ho Chi Minh City (commonly known as Saigon) is a city in southern Vietnam famous for the pivotal role it played in the Vietnam War. It's also known for its French colonial landmarks, including Notre-Dame Cathedral, made entirely of materials imported from France, the 19th-century Central Post Office or the bustling Ben Than Market.
- Ho Chi Minh City is Vietnam at its most dizzying: a high-octane city of commerce and culture that has driven the country forward with its pulsating energy.
- A chaotic whirl, the city breathes life and vitality into all who settle here, and visitors cannot help but be hauled along for the ride. From the finest of hotels to the cheapest of guesthouses, the classiest of restaurants to the tastiest of street stalls, the choicest of boutiques to the scrum of the markets, HCMC is a city of energy and discovery.
- Wander through timeless alleys to incense-infused temples before negotiating chic designer malls beneath sleek 21st-century skyscrapers. The ghosts of the past live on in buildings that one generation ago witnessed a city in turmoil, but now the real beauty of the former Saigon's urban collage is the seamless blending of these two worlds into one exciting mass.

- Many of the best attractions in Ho Chi Minh (Saigon) centre around the events of 20th century war and conquest. It sounds sombre, and in parts it is, but there are some truly fascinating historical activities suitable for all ages. From classic French architecture to perfectly maintained American war planes, walking around Ho Chi Minh is like seeing the past come to life with so many famous places of interest scattered throughout the city.
- Of course, as Vietnam's biggest city and business capital, times are changing and modern skyscrapers are starting to punctuate the sky combining the new and old in a uniquely Vietnamese way.

Places to Visit in Ho Chi Minh

Standing magnificently at the heart of Ho Chi Minh City is the Saigon Opera House, which is also known as the Municipal Theatre. The building stands as one of the impressive sight in Saigon – both night and day. Built in parallel structure, the Opera House is located on the city's center axis, connecting the metro station and roundabout in front of Ben Thanh market. From a distance, the Opera House looks like a beautiful gigantic city gate. The architecture boasts stone-carved ornaments and statues at the entrance, crystal chandeliers, and shiny granite floor at the lobby area – all built with materials imported from France. The oval auditorium with 468 seats offers good view from every seat. It is also echo-free and therefore preserves all the sound inside the theatre.

Saigon Opera House

Ho Chi Minh City's Bitexco Financial Tower & Sky Deck stands 262 metres high at the centre of the city's business district and offers visitors an unparalleled city view from its Sky Deck. Designed by renowned American Architect Carlos Zapata, this 68-storey tower houses offices, shops, restaurants, and a helipad. CNN Go recently ranked the building fifth in their listing of the world's 20 most iconic skyscrapers. Sky Deck visitors are accompanied by an English-speaking guide and can also enjoy interactive touch screen fact boxes delivering information on points of interest regarding city landmarks seen from above.

Places to Visit in Ho Chi Minh

The War Remnants Museum in Ho Chi Minh City first opened to the public in 1975. Once known as the 'Museum of American War Crimes', it's a shocking reminder of the long and brutal Vietnam War. Graphic photographs and American military equipment are on display. There's a helicopter with rocket launchers, a tank, a fighter plane, a single-seater attack aircraft. You can also see a conventional bomb that weighs at 6,800kg. American troops had used these weapons against the Vietnamese between 1945 and 1975.

War Remnants Museum

The tunnels of Củ Chi are an immense network of connecting tunnels located in the Củ Chi District of Ho Chi Minh City, Vietnam, and are part of a much larger network of tunnels that underlie much of the country. The tunnels were used by Viet Cong soldiers as hiding spots during combat, as well as serving as communication and supply routes, hospitals, food and weapon caches and living quarters for numerous North Vietnamese fighters. The Cu Chi Tunnels are part of a massive war museum in Ho Chi Minh. They offer visitors a sneak-peek at the underground life of Vietnamese soldiers back in 1948. The site has over 120km of underground tunnels, with trapdoors, living areas, kitchens, storage facilities, armoury, hospitals, and command centres. After the war against the French, Vietnamese soldiers expanded the tunnels and included effective air filtration systems, which helped them survive the Chu Chi carpet-bombings

Places to Visit in Ho Chi Minh

The Saigon Central Post Office is one of the most iconic tourist destinations in Ho Chi Minh City, with charming colonial architecture and ornate decorations forming the backdrop for newlywed photo-shoots, school trips, and city tours. Moreover, it is a beautiful remnant of Vietnam's complicated past. If you're looking to mail a postcard home or simply admire the architecture of a bygone era, this is definitely the place to do it. It has classical elements of Gothic, Renaissance and French colonial design.

Central Post Office

A grand neoclassical structure built in 1885 and once known as Gia Long Palace (and later the Revolutionary Museum), HCMC's city museum is a singularly beautiful and impressive building, telling the story of the city through archaeological artefacts, ceramics, old city maps and displays on the marriage traditions of its various ethnicities. The struggle for independence is extensively covered, with most of the upper floor devoted to it.

Places to Visit in Ho Chi Minh

Ho chi Minh Square

Reunification Centre

Ho Chi Minh Square can be found in the middle of District 1, right in the city centre, and is surrounded by beautiful French colonial style buildings. On this square you will find a statue of Uncle Ho, which was placed to honour the 100th birthday of Ho Chi Minh City People's Committee (City Hall). The City Hall is a popular place for tourists to take pictures and is especially beautiful around dusk, when many of the landmarks are lit by soft lighting. On the left flank of the square you find the five-star Rex Hotel which is also designed by French architects and was home to International journalists during the Vietnam War. A state of the art shopping mall with all international brands, a food court and some luxury hotel rooms can be found on the right side (also French colonial architecture).

Surrounded by royal palm trees, the dissonant 1960s architecture of this government building and the eerie mood that accompanies a walk through its deserted halls make it an intriguing spectacle. The first Communist tanks to arrive in Saigon rumbled here on 30 April 1975 and it's as if time has stood still since then. The building is deeply associated with the fall of the city in 1975, yet it's the kitsch detailing and period motifs that steal the show.

Places to Visit in Ho Chi Minh

Ben Thanh Market in Ho Chi Minh City's District 1 is a great place to buy local handicrafts, branded goods, Vietnamese art and other souvenirs. Here, you'll find eating stalls inside the market where you can get a taste of hawker-style Vietnamese cuisine or simply cool off with a cold drink when the bargaining becomes too much. The market is big, difficult to navigate at times and certainly best avoided during the hottest part of the day but all the same its well worth a look. When night falls, restaurants around the perimeter of the market open their doors creating a vibrant street side scene filling the air with the scents of wok-fried noodles, barbecued fish and meats. One of Saigon's oldest landmarks, Ben Thanh offers a great atmosphere that is absolutely authentically Vietnamese.
